Help Our Own Boys!

The ten day campaign of The Boys' Club Association to raise $500,000 for extending its work of building better boys closed Friday.

$108.021 was realized, and every dollar of this will be used in the work of providing better environment, better training, better care for our little "ragged sparrows" of the streets.

Your contribut on would help make up the difference-and it would be money invested in manhood-in boys who will be the citizens of the future.

It's not too late for you to do your share!

that hasn't been seen north of Great Jones Street since Haverley's Min-strels played Niblo's Garden, in the late eighties! That's window-bait. To correct Liberman's amiable shortcomings in this direction, it would be necessary to ornament his Tribune show-window (supposing he got it) with a placard conceived in this spirit:

Buy this Pearl & Gilson $6 Shirt for $1.89 (If you can) You Can't.

Why Not?

Because it's in the Window and the Window-Dresser Won't Undress the Window Till Midnight. He's Afraid of the Police.

But We Can Show You Shirts Inside at Twice the Price That Aren't Worth Half the Money. What do You Expect, Anyway, with the High Cost of Living What It Is?

Be a Sport and Take a Chance. Your Money Back if You've Got a Gun.

Then, of course, there's the matter of The Tribune guarantee to be considered. While The Tribune does not guarantee the reliability of the tenants of its building, as it does that of the tenants of its columns, hevertheless there is a growing impression on the part of the public that anything bearing The Tribune stamp in any form is to be depended upon, a fact to which the astute Liberman is doubtless not blind in attempting to locate himself in the Tribune Building. This confidence intempting to locate himself in the Tribune Building. This commence wolves the institution in a species of moral responsibility. Therefore, should Liberman become a tenant some special form would be necessary to cover his case. Possibly there might be a blanket announcement over the door of the Liberman shop, to this effect:

The Maison Spiff

(Philip Liberman, Proprietor) Operates Under

The Tribune Guarantee With the Reverse English.

Everything in this Store is Guaranteed to be Different from What it is Represented. All Purchasers Spending Counterfeit Money are Insured Against Loss.

Or, possibly, individual labels would better protect the public against its habitual indiscretions of purchasing. Articles might be listed, with the "warranted" mark at the top of each label, like this:

Pure Silk Ties-Value (claimed) $1.00-Value (real) 35c. Our Price, 55c. Pure Cashmere (cotton) Socks-Reduced to 50 per cent above their value, 27 cents. No

Yes, helping Liberman to conduct a store would have its charms. But it would also involve responsibilities. Conceivably other Tribune tenants might object; as the reputable Fifth Avenue merchants objected when Liberman started his "Philips" store at 28th Street. It is also within the possibilities that Liberman wouldn't gain all that he might hope for in entering The Tribune's precincts. Immunity, for example, Startling though the fact might be to Liberman's theory of the amenities of commerce, he and his business methods would be quite as subject to exposure and criticism while he was paying rental to The Tribune as before. Then he might consider himself aggrieved, and raise the plaint of violated hospitality.

Curiously enough a section would have its charms.

Curiously enough, another applicant for the same store space has also been a subject of Tribune criticism in the past. This gentleman deals in a certain type of merchandise which is, in itself, fair value for the prices charged, but which he has seen fit to market, not very long since, under a style of labelling whose excessively imaginative quality did not commend it to The Tribune's sense of fairness. Should this merchant forego his eccentric claims, and come down to a basis of reason and fairness, he might command consideration as a candidate for the space; since his goods have actual worth. But at the first symptoms of the old missing because the past of the p Liberman is not in danger of ejection. To design a basis of the kind of goods which get in. And the Liberman trade is upon a basis of the kind of goods which cannot be sold through any Tribune connection.

For these and other reasons—as many as he makes sales, per day—Liberman's offer has been rejected. He must look further for a roof to his branching enterprise. Mr. Hearst has a building not far away. So has Mr. Pulitzer. Between them and Liberman there need arise no irksome question of guarantees, or money back. Any one who has the price is welcome to the Hearst or Pulitzer advertising columns. There can be no logical reason for not extending the same principle of hospitality to the Hearst and Pulitzer properties.

No. Mr. Liberman. We cannot shelter you in The Tribune Building. It might be misconstrued—by yourself as well as others. But, cherr up. The "Stop! Look! Listen!" sign is still within easy reach. We have not lost interest in you just because we feel compelled to decline your well-meant offer. We can still watch you.

And we shall.
